“ Dearest Wendy remember this...Dying is how we are born into eternity. Death is the gateway to the life to come. We fear it. We scream, we cry, and we protest. But just on the other side of the veil, God the Father is rejoicing with the angels, because one of His precious children is coming home.....Pastor John Hagee

“ Wendy I'm so sorry for your loss. Cassie was such a beautiful girl inside and out. I loved when she came to trout camp with us. I haven't seen her lately but loved the pics she posted on facebook of her flowers and gardens. She was one of the sweetest girls I've ever met. She will be missed!! RIP Cassie. May heaven be full of flowers for you.

“ I knew Cassie from when she was a bartender at the Clarion Moose where she worked with her mom. She always had a smile on her face and I enjoyed many conversations with her there. Cassie was a beautiful person inside and out and it's so sad to see someone so young have to go. Rest in Peace Cassie and my condolences to her family. May God give them comfort.

“ Words cannot express how saddened I am for you Wendy, Michael, and Cody. Its been years since i seen Cassie because of me moving to germany but i use to go down n river rd and remember us riding our bikes and counting down till summer came and she was back in ohio... we always gave our parents a run for their money.. She was best friend growing up and she is going to be greatly missed! She touched alot of lives including mine. I am sorry once again for your loss I just cannot find the right words to say but what words can you say in a moment like this...
