“ That beautiful smile will forever be with me. You tried everything you could to beat that monster. I'll never forget the day, I walked around the curtain, and I knew the news on the other end of that call was not good. I believe after hanging up, my first question to you was, do you want to get that thing off your head and go enjoy some sunshine?! You gave me that smile and most of that evening, you sat outside. I could see it on your face, you were grateful for everything around you. And it was you, who helped me to be a stronger woman. I felt so helpless, on so many things in my life. But you reminded me to appreciate THE NOW. And I will forever think of you, when I slow down to feel the wind on my skin, or the warmth of the sun. Thank you, i wish i would have told you that. Rest now sweet girl. ✨❤
